The Golden Rule.

As for the domestic woman, I like washing dishes well enough. I suppose we all do. We had rather do it ourselves than have some girl do it hadly. But there is a certain book which one is at liberty to quote on all occasions, and which sets forth in plain terms whose place it is to wash the dishes. And in this book, whose authority we never question, it is written, "And they spread a line over Samaria and wiped out ferusalem as a man wipeth a dish, turning it upside down."

As for the business woman, I never saw a good housekeeper that was not a good business woman. It needs just as much energy, perseverance and gumption to be a successful housekeeper as it does to go to an office and go through its routine work. On the other hand, the members of this club (Sorosis) have demonstrated and are living proof that a successful business woman may be just as womanly, as gentle, as sweet as any home guarded woman in the land. The day will come when women will stand in a position to make men come up with them to the place where business can and will be done according to the golden ruie.—Rev. Fig. Few people are probably aware of the fact that modern industry has already got a foothold in the arctic regions, and that mines are worked on a large scale and a railroad regularly operated in such high latitudes. This is the case in Sweden, where the Lulea-Gellivare railroad, built for the purpose of carrying iron ore from the Gellivare mines to the scaport at Lulea, ortends 50 miles above the arctic circle and enjoys the distinction of being the first railroad to open up the frigid zone. Gellivare excursion trains will yet be running to arctic snumer resorts. In the meantime explorers will keep on hunting for lecture material and returning to civilization to peddle it out on the platform.—New Orleans Picayune.

Hawaiian Electric Company.

The cleanest, brightest safest and really, in the long run, the cheapest and best light for use in the family residence, is the incandescent electric light. Safe: nothing could be safer. A few days ago a prominent gentleman of Honolulu came rushing down to the office of the Electric Company and said: "Give ms figures for wiring my house, and I want it done at once; no more lamps for me. Last night a lamp tipped over and it came so near setting fire to the house and burning my children and I take no more risks."

This is the sentiment of quite a number in the past few weeks, who have ordered their houses fitted with the perfect light.

Just think it over and make up your mind that you want the best and safest light; send for the Hawaiian Electric Company and tell them what you want.

We have a complete stock of everything in this line and have just received a lot of the very latest designs in chandeliers.

water wheels as they grind the grists, and we rush in, apply the torch and leave a pillar of flame and snocke behind.

We head to the south for 15 miles, thence to the west for 10, thence back to the north for 15, a ride of 40 miles in 17 hours. Wounds, death, destruction and desolation! We found peace, and we brought war. We found comfort, and we left powerly watching our rear guard out of sight. We found old men and young children with words of kindness on their lips; we left them with such bitterness of heart that death alone could efface it. A gigantic serpent, a serpent with cyes of steel and a tongue of fire, had dragged itself over 40 miles of the enemy's country, and he who rode after must have prayed God that war might never come again.

that war might never come again.

As the sun begins to drop like a ball, and the clouds to bank up, and the snow-flakes to whirl about the enemy stretches across our path. This is good. The torch is thrown away for the saber; the jost is stlenced by the blasts of bugles. We are yet almost $50; the enemy fully as strong. Down go the fences, companies deploy right and left, our battery comes galloping to the front to open fire. In five minutes there is hot work. In five minutes there is hot work. In five more we get the orders: "Troti Gallop! Charge!" This is not house and barn burning; this is not jeering at helpless women and chill droh; this is not sweeping the farm of its live stock. No! This is flighting. Here on the broad fields 1,700 men shoot, cut, slash and kill. You can hear the horses scream out as the bullets burn them, the shricks of men as they throw up their hands and tumble to earth. Round and round, beck and forth, death holds high carnival for half an hour. Then the enemy falls back and leaves the road open, and we push past him. Re-enforcements are coming up to him, and we must escape while he is binding up his wounds. On the frozon grass of the meadows lie 200 dead and wounded men. The wounded call to us as we ride past, but they cannot be taken away. When we have gone, the enemy will do as he sees fit with those who wear our uniform. Wounded horses follow us, however, and more than one trooper who can sit his saddle feels the hot blood trickle down his leg or off his fingers. It is a trail of blood—a hundred trails in one—which the welves would how over as they followed. Now and then as we push ahead in the grimness of night some wounded man is overtaken by death and falls beneath the feet of the horses. They step over him, and their riders may wonler who it is but there is no halt. Camp and the finish at last, and within a few hours there is even the non balls for ountry taid wasta, the enemy beaten off with sever less. One of the most successful raids of the war."

Rapid Development In Alaska. Some late reports show that Alask Some late reports show that Alaska has been rapidly growing in commercial importance. Very few know the size of this part of the United States or appreciate its value. It is as large as Eugland, Ireland, France and Spain together. It is a spacious territory, filled with mineral wealth and likely in time to become of the first importance to this country. Even now its fisheries stand in the front rank, and its production of yold increases year by wear, and in time NOIT. gold increases year by year, and in time it may develop into a new California or Australia. Immigration is increasing, and the statistics of exports and imports show a steadily growing volume. Busi-ness has grown so rapidly that there is a demand for a revision of the statutes and the enactment of a code to govern the concerns of the territory.—Cincin-nati Tribune.

A Royal Glutton. Of royal Bourkons the Duke d'Aumale specially preserves the tradition of the 'historic great appetite.' His high-ness as a glutton bids fair to outshine ness as a glutton bids fair to outshine
